

Engaging and Training a Remote Workforce

Horizon Point Consulting, Inc.

The adoption of remote work is no longer brand new, but the associated challenges ebb and flow as more companies shift from a temporary to a potentially permanent remote workforce.

This workshop will cover best practices and resources for engaging and training remote workers. Content includes:

- Case studies on successful virtual facilitation of professional development
- Group discussion about technology and resources
- Best practices for engaging remote workers who have different work styles and personalities
